MSD7000 MSc Dissertation
Dissertation Handbook 2026-27

About the dissertation

The dissertation is an independent research project carried out under the guidance of a supervisor. It is worth 60 credits.

Assessment points

Project Specification: see the Project Specification brief for the deadline.
Interim review meeting: weeks 6 to 8 of Teaching Block 2.
Final dissertation: Friday 3 September 2027, 16:00 (UK time).

Working with your supervisor

You will be allocated a supervisor by the end of week 2.
Meet your supervisor at least once every two weeks during term.
Keep brief notes of each meeting and share them with your supervisor.

Before you submit your Project Specification, your supervisor must have reviewed a complete draft of it. Send the draft to your supervisor at least 10 working days before the specification deadline.
Specifications submitted without this review will be returned unmarked.

Progress

Your supervisor may also ask for a short progress note before the interim review; agree the format and timing with them.

Ethics

No data may be collected for your project before ethics approval has been granted. The Ethics Guidance explains the process and timescales.

Submission and academic integrity

All assessed work is submitted online and checked for similarity.
Late submission of the final dissertation requires an approved extension.
